

College is Coming... We'll Get You Ready Fast!

The cost of a college education has skyrocketed, and as a result, most parents with college-bound students feel completely overwhelmed. Most parents are not emotionally prepared for this big change, but even more are not financially prepared as they enter into the most expensive years of their lives. You are not alone!

Help is finally here! Jim Agan with Town and Country Insurance Agency regularly hosts free one-hour College Planning Relief[®] workshops to help families:

- Learn the specific keys to making college more affordable for parents
- Better understand the total cost of college and how to prepare
- Understand the steps to take right now to maximize aid qualification
- Dispel myths surrounding the Public vs. Private school comparison
- Offer best practices on school selection and much more!

If you, or someone you know has a student going to college in the next few years or even this next year, don't miss this opportunity to learn how to potentially save thousands of dollars! See why parents around the country are so grateful to finally get the CPR (College Planning Relief[®]) they need...and Why One Hour Can Truly Save Your Life...Savings!

Workshops are complimentary, but reservations are required

(parents of students grades 9-12 are encouraged to attend)
